Guide To NYC Fashion Week

Whether you’re sartorially savvy or the polar opposite of a fashionista, the high drama and sheer talent at Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week in New York—both inside and outside the tents—is a sight to behold. As designers from around the world prepare to debut their fall 2013 collections at Lincoln Center between Feb. 7 and 14, our Startle.com editors have been curating a collection of the best things to do and top-notch places to stay if you’re heading there to be part of the glitz and glamour.

Check out our blog on Startle.com to see which celebrity designers are leaving their high-style marks on luxury hotel suites.

What to Know
Fashion Week is a massive event that brings 100,000 people to Lincoln Center’s Damrosch Park for eight days of style and spectacle. Shows are invite-only, but even if you don’t score a golden ticket, it’s worth a stop by the plaza for the ultimate only-in-New-York people watching.

This year, more than 75 designers will showcase their handiwork at official Fashion Week events; the roster includes legendary names (Ralph Lauren, Diane von Furstenberg) and emerging brands (MM6 by Maison Martin Margiela, Monika Chiang). Among the labels to watch this season are ICB by Prabal Gurung—often worn by first lady Michelle Obama—and American designers Trina Turk and Steven Alan. While the three have participated in previous Fashion Weeks, Turk and Gurung will present their first live runway shows at Lincoln Center.
What to Do
Beyond the formal shows of Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week, the arrival of the worldwide fashion industry in New York spawns many spin-off events. Often more intimate—and typically easier to get into—these celebrations are good bets for an up-close look at models working the runway.

Nolcha Fashion Week is the city's other official Fashion Week. The platform, created to help launch the careers of independent designers, will present fall and winter collections at Pier 59 on Feb. 13, with other events—from a bloggers’ brunch to after parties—running from Feb. 11 to 14.

Small Boutique Fashion Week, meanwhile, presents its runway show and market on Feb. 10 at Metropolitan Pavilion. The event connects emerging designers with boutique owners, but because it's open to the public, you can snag a ticket and enjoy the show as well.

Immediately following Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week, Couture Fashion Week (Feb. 15 to 17) focuses on luxury pieces from international designers. The often over-the-top designs are displayed with gusto; the event closed last season with a collaborative mural-painting exercise. This year marks the first time that Couture Fashion Week moves from the Forbes Travel Guide Four-Star Waldorf Astoria New York to its new home in the New Yorker Hotel.

One-off, niche runway shows provide more opportunities to sit in the front row. Reality TV fans should check out the first Reality of Fashion The Reality of AIDS fundraiser show, taking place Feb. 9 in The Altman Building. With models plucked from programs like Bravo's Real Housewives franchise, this open event guarantees more than a smattering of reality-star sightings. And on Feb. 12 at downtown hot spot Tenjune, Fashion Meets Music teams up with Camp Couture NYC for a show that melds fashion and entertainment; artists slated to perform include Amanda Brown of The Voice. General admission tickets are available.

Shopping is, of course, synonymous with fashion shows, and even if your wardrobe is more prêt-à-porter than haute couture, you can still fill a bag or two with cutting-edge ensembles thanks to the pop-up shops that proliferate during Fashion Week. Head to Nordstrom-owned Treasure & Bond in Soho for the CFDA/Vogue Fashion Fund pop-up that spotlights designs from this year’s 10 Fashion Fund finalists. The featured designers join an illustrious club of past winners like Proenza Schouler, Prabal Gurung, 3.1 Phillip Lim and Thom Browne, designer of first lady Michelle Obama’s 2013 inauguration coat and dress. This Fashion Fund pop-up opens on Feb. 6.
Where to Eat

Fortuitously, a number of the chic eateries around Lincoln Center are participating in NYC Restaurant Week during Fashion Week (the two overlap on Feb. 7 and 8). On the third floor of the Time Warner Center, the Italian restaurant A Voce will offer a $25, three-course, prix-fixe lunch—along with sweeping views of Central Park and a buzzing fashion crowd inside.

The swanky Ed’s Chowder House at The Empire Hotel, just across from Lincoln Center, is also serving a Restaurant Week menu. But don’t miss the newest addition to its regular menu—the Stone Crab Mary is a seafood-topped twist on a traditional bloody Mary. Afterward, stake out a spot at The Empire Hotel’s trendy rooftop bar for a view of the Lincoln Center tents from above.

Lincoln Square Business Improvement District will pick up where Restaurant Week leaves off when its Fashion Plate Prix Fixe returns on Feb. 9. As in years past, the organization is gathering 25 neighborhood luminaries to offer special lunch or dinner menus through Feb. 16. Expected participants include Thomas Keller’s Bouchon Bakery and Daniel Boulud’s Bar Boulud.

When it comes to a mid-morning bite, nothing says New York brunch like the Parisian-style brasserie Balthazar. Fashion designers from Zac Posen to Victoria Beckham have held after-parties at the Soho institution; celebrity chefs routinely recommend it; and Falguni and Shane Peacock—Fashion Week presenters and the go-to design duo for many a pop star—tell us they won’t miss it during Fashion Week. You can’t go wrong with the pastries.

Where to Stay

Forbes Travel Guide Four-Star Trump SoHo is giving the fashion set a place to kick back after a crazy day at the shows—or before attending a Fashion Week soiree. Its Four-Star Spa at Trump SoHo will offer specially priced, fashion-friendly treatments such as Red Carpet Ready Facials and detox massages. Expect manicures, pedicures, and makeup and hair touch-ups to be available at special rates as well.

Across Central Park from Lincoln Center, Forbes Travel Guide Four-Star Hôtel Plaza Athénée New York will treat you to a historic depiction of Fashion Week. In an homage to the event’s founding in 1943, the Upper East Side hotel’s Arabelle restaurant will showcase a 10-foot table portraying 1940s New York street style in an intricate scene by Brazilian event designer Clarissa Rezende. You’ll be equally impressed with your guest room’s style, which mixes European furnishings and rich silks with plasma TVs and Wi-Fi.
The Pierre, A Taj Hotel, New York is partnering with design school Parsons to turn Two E Bar/Lounge into a mini costume exhibit during Fashion Week. Complementing the look is a cocktail menu inspired by the student designers and their pieces. Drink up to give back; the Forbes Travel Guide Four-Star hotel will donate 50 percent of proceeds to support emerging New York designers.

If you want proximity to Lincoln Center, you’d be hard-pressed to get closer than the Forbes Travel Guide Five-Star Mandarin Oriental, New York on Columbus Circle. You’ll feel like a VIP as you’re whisked to the hotel’s 35th-floor lobby; but if you want to feel like a runway model, book the New Year, New You package (available through March 31). It includes everything you need for a one-day Blueprint juice cleanse, plus a three- to four-hour Clearing Factor spa treatment and a private yoga class.

Lincoln Square Restaurants Offer Discounts and Specials During Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week 2/7-2/14

Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week is back in New York City and Lincoln Square restaurants step up to the plate! The runways will be lit and the area's restaurants are sure to be packed with people taking advantage of Lincoln Square BID's successful dining promotions: Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Lincoln Square Crew Cuts. The Event runs February 7-14 and the Upper West Side's most popular restaurants are hosting fashionably exceptional deals for everyone coming to, living in or working in the Lincoln Square neighborhood.

Food & Wine being three of the latest additions to the list of participating restaurants. Also new this season, a few of the participants are offering drink specials such as $5 Blackberry Bellinis at 'wichcraft (at David Rubenstein Atrium). Crew members working fashion related events can even grab take-out offerings from a wide range of affordable food establishments in the Lincoln Square Crew Cuts program.

"We're always excited to bring back our popular Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Crew Cuts programs to the Lincoln Square area. So many locals and visitors look forward to great deals and fantastic food and the restaurants are delighted to open their doors to new and regular customers," said Monica Blum, Lincoln Square BID President. "Fashion Plate Prix Fixe deals help stimulate business and bring enthusiasm to the Upper West Side during Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week and it is a great way to keep warm and get an incredible meal in between shows."

"Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week has called the Lincoln Square area home for the past six seasons. In that time, the local community has rallied together to welcome the over 100,000 guests each season that make their way here," says Jarrod Clark, Global Director of Production, IMG Fashion. "Recently, Fordham University put out a study that over $40 million was generated annually to the Lincoln Center area as a result of the event, a true testament to programs like Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Crew Cuts which are specifically designed to bring revenue to the Upper West Side."

This is the fourth year and sixth season the Lincoln Square BID is supporting the event. The nonprofit business improvement district also promotes the area's diverse business, education and cultural offerings through annual events such as the Winter's Eve celebration - NYC's largest holiday festival, Summer Concert Series at Richard Tucker Park, Tourist Information Ambassador Program, among others. Lincoln Square BID's neighborhood area runs from Columbus Circle to 70th Street between Amsterdam and Central Park West.

Fashion Plate Prix Fixe is open to the public for lunch, dinner and brunches during Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week. 28 restaurants are offering outstanding menu options, for example: Upper West Side staple Atlantic Grill is featuring a $25 Prix Fixe lunch special as well a three-course dinner for only $38; The Smith is hosting a $27 three-course lunch and complimentary sparkling morning punch with any breakfast entree; and a special two-course, modern Italian brunch is being offered at Lincoln Ristorante for $35.
The Lincoln Square BID is also excited to bring back Lincoln Square Crew Cuts, designed to offer speedy and affordable dining/take-out options for the busy crews working on Fashion Week events. Discounts, such as 10% off breakfast, lunch and dinner, is being offered at 18 eateries in the Lincoln Square area, including Lincoln Square mainstays Alan’s Market Place, Breadsoul and Lincoln Cafés, Melissa's Gourmet Deli, 'wichcraft, Old John's Luncheonette, P.J. Clarke's at Lincoln Square and others from January 17 through February 25, 2013.

About the Lincoln Square BID:

The Lincoln Square Business Improvement District (BID) is a not-for-profit tax-exempt organization that was formed in 1996 by property owners, businesses and others with a stake in this Upper West Side community. Its mission is to make Lincoln Square cleaner, safer, and more beautiful, and to undertake various improvement projects. The BID’s efforts are focused on supplemental sanitation and security services; the beautification of public spaces, malls, and parks; and the promotion and marketing of the area’s diverse business and cultural offerings. The BID is a catalyst working with business, community and city partners to promote positive change in Lincoln Square. Its programs and initiatives are designed to showcase the rich and varied resources of this vibrant Upper West Side neighborhood.

The promotion expands each season with American Table Cafe & Bar, Andanada 141 and Arpeggio Food & Wine being three of the latest additions to the list of participating restaurants. Also new this season, a few of the participants are offering drink specials such as $5 Blackberry Bellinis at ‘wichcraft (at David Rubenstein Atrium). Crew members working fashion related events can even grab take-out offerings from a wide range of affordable food establishments in the Lincoln Square Crew Cuts program. Fashion Plate Prix Fixe is open to the public for lunch, dinner and brunches during Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week. 28 restaurants are offering outstanding menu options, for example: Upper West Side staple Atlantic Grill is featuring a $25 Prix Fixe lunch special as well a three-course dinner for only $38; The Smith is hosting a $27 three-course lunch and complimentary sparkling morning punch with any breakfast entree; and a special two-course, modern Italian brunch is being offered at Lincoln Ristorante for $35. About the Lincoln Square BID:

The Lincoln Square Business Improvement District (BID) is a not-for-profit tax-exempt organization that was formed in 1986 by property owners, businesses and others with a stake in this Upper West Side community. Its mission is to make Lincoln Square cleaner, safer, and more beautiful, and to undertake various improvement projects. The BID’s efforts are focused on supplemental sanitation and security services; the beautification of public spaces, malls, and parks; and the promotion and marketing of the area's diverse business and cultural offerings. The BID is a catalyst working with business, community and city partners to promote positive change in Lincoln Square. Its programs and initiatives are designed to showcase the rich and varied resources of this vibrant Upper West Side neighborhood.

Fashion Week Brings Dining Deals to Upper West Side

February 7, 2013 2:17pm
By Emily Frost, DNAinfo Reporter/Producer

UPPER WEST SIDE — Hungry fashionistas — along with Upper West Siders — can enjoy dining deals at dozens of neighborhood restaurants during Fashion Week this year.

The Lincoln Square BID is hosting an expanded Fashion Plate Prix Fixe week from Feb. 7 to 14, with dinners ranging from $20 to $40 for three courses, lunches ranging from $14 to $35 and weekend brunch and breakfast options as well.

A few restaurants will also offer drink specials, such as the $5 blackberry bellini at wichcraft at the David Rubenstein Auditorium, and the Haute Fashion Cocktail at the Atlantic Grill, which features raspberry vodka with cranberry juice and lemon juice for $14.

New additions to the prix fixe list this year include American Table Café & Bar, which opened last fall; Andanada 141, which opened last November; The Smith, which also opened in November; and Arpeggio Food & Wine at Avery Fisher Hall.

"Fashion Plate Prix Fixe deals help stimulate business and bring enthusiasm to the Upper West Side during Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week and it is a great way to keep warm and get an incredible meal in between shows," said Monica Blum, president of the BID.

The full guide to offerings and prices can be found here.

From Jan. 17 through Feb. 25, the BID has also organized discounts for Fashion Week crew members under its "Crew Cuts" program, which offers 10 percent off most lunches at 18 restaurants in the area.
Roasted sweet peppers marinated with olive oil, toasted garlic and oregano, served with buffalo milk mozzarella and drizzled with pesto sauce at Gabriella's Bar and Restaurant.

A tuna steak with horseradish cream, marinated cucumbers, marinated tomato and watercress at Gabriella's Bar and Restaurant.

Jean-Georges Vongerichten is offering a Fashion Week prix fixe at his Nougatine restaurant at 1 Central Park West.
The Lincoln Square BID's Fashion Plate Prix Fixe includes offerings from dozens of restaurants located near Fashion Week.

Lincoln Center is busier than ever, with events like Fashion Week drawing thousands to the neighborhood.

48 hours in New York during Fashion Week

By Michelle Nichola
NEW YORK | Fri Feb 8, 2013 11:11 am GMT

(Reuters) - New York's Mercedes Benz Fashion Week kicked off on Thursday and will include hundreds of designers showing their Fall/Winter 2013 collections during the event at Lincoln Center and venues around the city.

The event, which runs through February 14, attracts 250,000 people to New York City, which estimates that millions be spent in the restaurants and hotels during Fashion Week.

Reuters correspondents with local knowledge show how to make the most of a short visit to the city and where to find good food, fun and fashion.

FRIDAY

6 p.m. - After settling into your hotel, head to the Empire Hotel at 44 West 53rd Street and enjoy a cocktail on the roof and soak in the city views. During Fashion Week, you never know who you might run in to. (www.empirehotelnyc.com)

7:30 p.m. - Head across the street to Lincoln Center to see a show. Lincoln Center is a cultural center in the city and home to The Metropolitan Opera, New York City Ballet and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Twice a year, in February and September, Lincoln Center hosts New York Fashion Week when the people-watching in the square is brilliant and where your style can draw the attention of the dozens of fashion photographers roaming the area.

To see what is on the Lincoln Center go to www.lincolncenter.org

10:30 p.m. - Stop for dinner near Lincoln Center at Bar Boulud, at 1900 Broadway, between 63rd and 64th streets. It is one of several New York City restaurants belonging to three Michelin-starred chef Daniel Boulud. (www.danielelyo.com/barboulud.html)

Dozens of restaurants around Lincoln Square take part in "Fashion Plate Prix Fixe" during Fashion Week, offering special three-course lunches and dinners. A full list of participating restaurants can be found at www.lincolnsquarebid.org/news/NewFashionPlatePrixFixeFebruary2013

SATURDAY

10 a.m. - Enjoy a coffee and Mimosa cocktail with brunch at Morandi (www.morandinyc.com), at 211 Waverly Place in the West Village, a favourite with celebrities in New York. It is also just a couple of streets from the fictional apartment of "Sex and the City" fashionista Carrie Bradshaw.
12 p.m. - Go shopping along Bleecker Street between 7th Avenue and 8th Avenue in the West Village, where you will find labels including Marc Jacobs, Michael Kors, Jimmy Choo and Ralph Lauren. Pick up a cupcake at Magnolia Bakery at 401 Bleecker Street (www.magnoliabakery.com).

4 p.m. - Get a manicure at Spa Belles on 326 Bleecker Street (www.spabelles.com/bleecker.php), and then get your hair done at Blow (www.blowpro.com) on 342 W. 14th Street, to be ready for a night out on the town.

6 p.m. - Enjoy cocktails at the bar at the top of The Standard Hotel at 848 Washington Street, which has amazing views across the Hudson River to New Jersey and of New York City - even from the bathroom! (www.standardhotels.com/high-line)

8 p.m. - Dine at Buddakan, 75 9th Avenue, in the Meatpacking District. You will recognize the long table in the grand main dining room from a key scene in the first "Sex and the City" movie - a dinner the night before Carrie's wedding to Mr Big. (www.buddakannya.com/buddakan.html)

11 p.m. - If you feel like dancing off your meal, go to Chelsea to check out Avenue at 115 10th Avenue (www.avenue-newyork.com) or 1 Oak on 453 West 17th Street (www.1oaknyc.com), which are both popular venues for Fashion Week after-parties.

SUNDAY

11:30 a.m. - New Yorkers love brunch on the weekend, but they don't eat early. Try out Beauty and Essex, 146 Essex Street, on Manhattan's Lower East Side. The entrance to this two-storey restaurant is hidden in the back of a pawn shop. (www.beautyandessex.com)

1 p.m. - While the established designers are showing their collections uptown at Lincoln Center, check out what New York City's young designers have to offer at The Market on Bleecker Street. (www.themarketnyc.com/themarketnyc/WELCOME_to_TheMarketNYC_159_Bleecker_Street.html)

Or head to Brooklyn to see the designers at the Brooklyn Flea, which is currently housed in the beautiful former Williamsburg Savings Bank. (www.brooklynflea.com/markets)

7 p.m. - After a hectic weekend of fun and fashion, enjoy a relaxed glass of wine and small plates for dinner at Gottino at 52 Greenwich Avenue in Greenwich Village. (www.ilmiogottino.com)

NEW YORK, Feb 8 (Reuters) - New York’s Mercedes Benz Fashion Week kicked off on Thursday and will include hundreds of designers showing their Fall/Winter 2013 collections during the event at Lincoln Center and venues around the city.

The event, which runs through Feb. 14, attracts 233,000 people to New York City, which estimates that millions be spent in the restaurants and hotels during Fashion Week.

Reuters correspondents with local knowledge show how to make the most of a short visit to the city and where to find good food, fun and fashion.

FRIDAY

6 p.m. - After settling into your hotel, head to the Empire Hotel at 44 West 63rd Street and enjoy a cocktail on the roof and soak in the city views. During Fashion Week, you never know who you might run in to. (www.empirehotelnyc.com)

7:30 p.m. - Head across the street to Lincoln Center to see a show. Lincoln Center is a cultural center in the city and home to The Metropolitan Opera, New York City Ballet and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Dining in Style and for a Good Price: Fashion Plates to Wear and Eat

Starting this week, coinciding with Gotham’s famed Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week, 26 ever-so-chic Upper West Side restaurants are stepping up to the plate (virtually) and are offering their “Fashion Plate” deals on meals. The Lincoln Square Business Improvement District’s successful dining promotion, “Fashion Plate” is back this year, and there is a wide range of eateries participating, some with jaw-dropping, over-the-top menus — places you’ve always wanted to try, but were hesitant. The event runs from the 7th to the 14th for Fashion Week. The promotion expands each season with American Table Café & Bar, Andanada 141, and Arpeggio Food & Wine being three of the latest additions to the list of participating restaurants.

Also new this season, a few of the participants are offering drink specials such as $5 Blackberry Bellinis at Witchcraft (at David Rubenstein Atrium). There are also deals for Fashion Week staff, at other, more affordable eateries where the crews working Fashion Week can get a delicious take-out meal to be eaten on the fly, with a deep discount. (That program is called Crew Cuts and it’s for the staff of Fashion Week, who survive for eight days on breathing mere air and eating take-out.) But Fashion Plate restaurants are open to all.

"The Lincoln Square community loves playing host to visitors from around the city and the world -- and our restaurants are always eager to offer special deals. Whether you have tickets to watch the runway shows, Fashion Plate is a fun and tasty way to celebrate," noted Monica Blum, president of the Lincoln Square Business Improvement District, which has spearheaded this program since its inception.

Fashion Plate Prix Fixe is open to all (just get yourself a reservation first, so you can be assured you get into your favorite places) for lunch, dinner, and brunches during Fashion Week. Some of New York City’s newest hotspots, including Bouled Sud and The Leopard (in the old Café des Artistes spot; pictured above) are participating. Twenty-eight restaurants are offering outstanding menu options, for example: Upper West Side staple Atlantic Grill’s three-course prix-fixe lunch and dinner for $25.00 and $38.00 respectively; A Voce’s $33.00 three-course prix-fixe lunch; The Smith is hosting a $27 three-course lunch and complimentary sparkling morning punch with any breakfast entree; and a special two-course, modern Italian brunch is being offered at Lincoln Ristorante (pictured below left) for $35. (For a complete list of participating restaurants, please see below.)
The Lincoln Square BID is also excited to bring back Lincoln Square Crew Cuts, designed to offer speedy and affordable dining/take-out options for the busy crews working on Fashion Week events. Discounts, such as 10% off breakfast, lunch and dinner, being offered at 13 eateries in the Lincoln Square area, including Lincoln Square mainstays Alan’s Market Place, Bread Soul and Lincoln Café, Melissa’s Gourmet Deli. Witchcraft, Old John’s Luncheonette, P.J. Clarke’s at Lincoln Square and others from January 17 through February 26, 2013.

This is the fourth year and sixth season the Lincoln Square BID is supporting the event. The non-profit business improvement district also promotes the area’s diverse business, educational opportunities, and cultural offerings through annual events such as the annual Winter’s Eve celebration, which is Gotham’s largest holiday festival; Summer Concert Series at Richard Tucker Park; Tourist Information Ambassador Program, among others. Lincoln Square BID’s neighborhood area runs from Columbus Circle to 70th Street between Amsterdam and Central Park West.

Dining in Style and for a Good Price: Fashion Plates to Wear and Eat

Starting this week, coinciding with Gotham's famed Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week, 28 ever-so-chic Upper West Side restaurants are stepping up to the plate (virtually) and are offering their "Fashion Plate" deals on meals. The Lincoln Square Business Improvement District's successful dining promotion, "Fashion Plate" is back this year, and there is a wide range of eateries participating, some with jaw-dropping, over-the-top menus -- places you've always wanted to try, but were hesitant. The event runs from the 7th to the 14th for Fashion Week. The promotion expands each season with American Table Café & Bar, Andanada 141, and Arpeggio Food & Wine being three of the latest additions to the list of participating restaurants.

Also new this season, a few of the participants are offering drink specials such as $5 Blackberry Bellinis at 'wichcraft (at David Rubenstein Atrium). There are also deals for Fashion Week staff, at other, more affordable eateries where the crews working Fashion Week can get a delicious take-out meal to be eaten on the fly, with a deep discount. (That program is called Crew Cuts and it's for the staffs of Fashion Week, who survive for eight days on breathing mere air and eating take-out.) But Fashion Plate restaurants are open to all.

"The Lincoln Square community loves playing host to visitors from around the city and the world -- and our restaurants are always eager to offer special deals. Whether you have tickets to watch the runway shows, Fashion Plate is a fun and tasty way to celebrate," noted Monica Blum, president of the Lincoln Square Business Improvement District, which has spearheaded this program since its inception.
Fashion Plate Prix Fixe is open to all (just get yourself a reservation first, so you can be assured you get into your favorite places) for lunch, dinner, and brunches during Fashion Week. Some of New York City’s newest hotspots, including Loulou Sud and The Leopard (in the old Café des Artistes spot; pictured above) are participating. Twenty-eight restaurants are offering outstanding menu options, for example: Upper West Side staple Atlantic Grill’s three-course prix-fixe lunch and dinner for $25.00 and $35.00 respectively; A Voce’s $33.00 three-course prix-fixe lunch; The Smith is hosting a $27 three-course lunch and complimentary sparkling mimosa with any breakfast entrée; and a special two-course, modern Italian brunch is being offered at Lincoln Ristorante (pictured below left) for $35. (For a complete list of participating restaurants, please see below.)

The Lincoln Square BID is also excited to bring back Lincoln Square Crew Cuts, designed to offer speedy and affordable dining/take-out options for the busy crews working on Fashion Week events. Discounts, such as 10% off breakfast, lunch and dinner, are being offered at 16 eateries in the Lincoln Square area, including Lincoln Square mainstays Alan’s Market Place, Breadsoul and Lincoln Café, Melissa’s Gourmet Deli, Watchcraft, Old John’s Luncheonette, F.J. Clarke’s at Lincoln Square and others from January 17 through February 25, 2013.

This is the fourth and sixth season the Lincoln Square BID is supporting the event. The non-profit business improvement district also promotes the area’s diverse business, educational opportunities, and cultural offerings through annual events such as the annual Winter’s Eve celebration, which is Gotham’s largest holiday festival; Summer Concert Series at Richard Tucker Park; Tourist Information Ambassador Program, among others. Lincoln Square BID’s neighborhood area runs from Columbus Circle to 70th Street between Amsterdam and Central Park West.

Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week Fashion Plate Prix Fixe

Posted by Kristen Colapinto on February 9th, 2013

With Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week in full swing, the area’s restaurants are offering two great dining promotions: Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Lincoln Square Crew Cuts.

The Event runs February 7-14, on the Upper West Side and allows fashion week attendees to enjoy pre-fix lunch and dinner options. Additionally, crew members working fashion related events are able to grab take-out offerings from a wide range of affordable food establishments.

“We’re always excited to bring back our popular Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Crew Cuts programs to the Lincoln Square area. So many locals and visitors look forward to great deals and fantastic food and the restaurants are delighted to open their doors to new and regular customers,” said Monica Blum, Lincoln Square BID President. “Fashion Plate Prix Fixe deals help stimulate business and bring enthusiasm to the Upper West Side during Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week and it is a great way to keep warm and get an incredible meal in between shows.”

For a complete list of participating restaurants, please see below.

Interesting Fact: "Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week has called the Lincoln Square area home for the past six seasons. In that time, the local community has rallied together to welcome the over 100,000 guests each season that make their way here," says Jarrad Clark, Global Director of Production, IMG Fashion. "Recently, Fordham University put out a study that over $40 million was generated annually to the Lincoln Center area as a result of the event, a true testament to programs like Fashion Plate Prix Fixe and Crew Cuts which are specifically designed to bring revenue to the Upper West Side."

New York's Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week kicked off on Thursday and will include hundreds of designers showing their Fall/Winter 2013 collections during the event at Lincoln Center and venues around the city.

The event, which runs through February 14, attracts 232,000 people to New York City, which estimates that millions be spent in the restaurants and hotels during Fashion Week.

Reuters correspondents with local knowledge show how to make the most of a short visit to the city and where to find good food, fun and fashion.

FRIDAY

6 p.m. - After settling into your hotel, head to the Empire Hotel at 44 West 63rd Street and enjoy a cocktail on the roof and soak in the city views. During Fashion Week, you never know who you might run into.

7:30 p.m. - Head across the street to Lincoln Center to see a show. Lincoln Center a cultural center in the city and home to The Metropolitan Opera, New York City Ballet and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Twice a year, in February and September, Lincoln Center hosts New York Fashion Week when the people-watching in the square is brilliant and where your style can draw the attention of the dozens of fashion photographers roaming the area.

To see what is on the Lincoln Center go to www.lincolncenter.org

10:30 p.m. - Stop for dinner near Lincoln Center at Bar Boulud, at 1900 Broadway, between 63rd and 64th streets. It is one of several New York City restaurants belonging to three Michelin-starred chef Daniel Boulud.

Dozens of restaurants around Lincoln Square take part in "Fashion Plate Prix Fixe" during Fashion Week, offering special three-course lunches and dinners. A full list of participating restaurants can be found at www.lincolnsquarebid.org

SATURDAY

10 a.m. - Enjoy a coffee and Mimosa cocktail with brunch at Morandi, at 211 Waverly Place in the West Village, a favorite with celebrities in New York. It is also just a couple of streets from the fictional apartment of "Sex and the City" fashionista Carrie Bradshaw.

12 p.m. - Go shopping along Bleecker Street between 7th Avenue and 8th Avenue in the West Village, where you will find labels including Marc Jacobs, Michael Kors, Jimmy Choo and Ralph Lauren. Pick up a cupcake at Magnolia Bakery at 401 Bleecker Street.

4 p.m. - Get a manicure at Spa Belles on 326 Bleecker Street, and then get your hair done at Blow on 342 W. 14th Street, to be ready for a night out on the town.

6 p.m. - Enjoy cocktails at the bar at the top of The Standard Hotel at 848 Washington Street, which has amazing views across the Hudson River to New Jersey and of New York City - even from the bathroom!

8 p.m. - Dine at Buddakan, 75 9th Avenue, in the Meatpacking District. You will recognize the long table in the grand main dining room from a key scene in the first "Sex and the City" movie - a dinner the night before Carrie's wedding to Mr Big.

11 p.m. - If you feel like dancing off your meal, go to Chelsea to check out Avenue at 116 10th Avenue or 1 Oak on 453 West 17th Street, which are both popular venues for Fashion Week after-parties.
SUNDAY

11:30 a.m. - New Yorkers love brunch on the weekend, but they don't eat early. Try out Beauty and Essex, 146 Essex Street, on Manhattan's Lower East Side. The entrance to this two-storey restaurant is hidden in the back of a pawn shop.

1 p.m. - While the established designers are showing their collections uptown at Lincoln Center, check out what New York City's young designers have to offer at The Market on Bleecker Street.

Or head to Brooklyn to see the designers at the Brooklyn Flea, which is currently housed in the beautiful former Williamsburg Savings Bank.

NEW YORK — New York's Mercedes Benz Fashion Week kicked off on Thursday and will include hundreds of designers showing their Fall/Winter 2013 collections during the event at Lincoln Center and venues around the city.

The event, which runs through February 14, attracts 232,000 people to New York City, which estimates that millions be spent in the restaurants and hotels during Fashion Week.

Reuters correspondents with local knowledge show how to make the most of a short visit to the city and where to find good food, fun and fashion.

FRIDAY

8 p.m. — After settling into your hotel, head to the Empire Hotel at 44 West 63rd Street and enjoy a cocktail on the roof and soak in the city views. During Fashion Week, you never know who you might run into.

7:30 p.m. — Head across the street to Lincoln Center to see a show. Lincoln Center a cultural center in the city and home to The Metropolitan Opera, New York City Ballet and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Twice a year, in February and September, Lincoln Center hosts New York Fashion Week when the people-watching in the square is brilliant and where your style can draw the attention of the dozens of fashion photographers roaming the area.

To see what is on the Lincoln Center go to www.lincolncenter.org

10:30 p.m. — Stop for dinner near Lincoln Center at Bar Boulud, at 1900 Broadway, between 63rd and 64th streets. It is one of several New York City restaurants belonging to three Michelin-starred chef Daniel Boulud.

Dozens of restaurants around Lincoln Square take part in "Fashion Plate Prix Fixe" during Fashion Week, offering special three-course lunches and dinners.

SATURDAY

10 a.m. — Enjoy a coffee and Mimosa cocktail with brunch at Morandi (www.morandiny.com), at 211 Waverly Place in the West Village, a favorite with celebrities in New York. It is also just a couple of streets from the fictional apartment of "Sex and the City" fashionista Carrie Bradshaw.

12 p.m. — Go shopping along Bleecker Street between 7th Avenue and 8th Avenue in the West Village, where you will find labels including Marc Jacobs, Michael Kors, Jimmy Choo and Ralph Lauren. Pick up a cupcake at Magnolia Bakery at 401 Bleecker Street.

4 p.m. — Get a manicure at Spa Belles on 326 Bleecker Street, and then get your hair done at Blow on 342 W. 14th Street, to be ready for a night out on the town.

6 p.m. — Enjoy cocktails at the top of The Standard Hotel at 848 Washington Street, which has amazing views across the Hudson River to New Jersey and of New York City — even from the bathroom!

8 p.m. — Dine at Buddakan, 75 9th Avenue, in the Meatpacking District. You will recognize the long table in the grand main dining room from a key scene in the first "Sex and the City" movie — a dinner the night before Carrie's wedding to Mr Big.

11 p.m. — If you feel like dancing off your meal, go to Chelsea to check out Avenue at 116 10th Avenue or 1 Oak on 453 West 17th Street, which are both popular venues for Fashion Week after-parties.
SUNDAY

11:30 a.m. — New Yorkers love brunch on the weekend, but they don’t eat early. Try out Beauty and Essex, 146 Essex Street, on Manhattan’s Lower East Side. The entrance to this two-storey restaurant is hidden in the back of a pawn shop.

1 p.m. — While the established designers are showing their collections uptown at Lincoln Center, check out what New York City’s young designers have to offer at The Market on Bleecker Street.

Or head to Brooklyn to see the designers at the Brooklyn Flea, which is currently housed in the beautiful former Williamsburg Savings Bank.

7 p.m. — After a hectic weekend of fun and fashion, enjoy at the Gottino at 52 Greenwich Avenue in Greenwich Village. — Reuters
